CHURCH NEWS Dear Friends

One of the key elements of Celtic Spirituality which I have been studying over the last three months is a sense of connection with the natural world around us. There are many aspects of creation that we find strange, scary, even repulsive especially when we are used to being in control and keeping safe. This month's Countryfile magazine promises a feature on 'Wonder Wasps' because 'it's time we learned to love the picnic pest'. There is beauty all around us – so easy to find in this part of the world but also in unexpected situations and places. It might be in a tiny detail of stone, creature or something we've made ourselves. There is always beauty in the face of someone we love – and in the stranger too.

Looking for beauty all around us is a contemplative practice, an exercise in opening our hearts, minds, and bodies to the divine image which some of us call God. In indigenous traditions, such opening practices often take the form of dance, drumming, song, and trance, embodied forms that Western, and particularly European-based, Christianity has neglected.

I sometimes hear the comment around this time of year that harvest festivals aren't what they used to be; that offerings of non-perishable foods – tins, packets and so on – don't have the same impact as a church bursting with fresh flowers, fruit and vegetables. There is surely a place for both – a sharing of food and providing for those less fortunate but also a celebration of the goodness and beauty and abundance of the world around us. Come and fill our churches to overflowing this harvest thanksgiving season!

Our harvest thanksgiving services are as follows :

16 th Sept	11am All Saints' Sutton
23 rd Sept	11am All Saints' Ramsholt (for both Alderton & Ramsholt)
	11am St Mary's Bawdsey
30 th Sept	4pm Shottisham Allotments
7 th Oct	6.30pm All Saints' Hollesley
21 st Oct	11am St Andrew's Boyton

I would like to express my appreciation to all who led worship and took on extra responsibilities during my recent 3 month extended study leave.

I will be giving a presentation entitled 'Walking, Wonder & Welcome' about my time away studying Celtic spirituality in Hollesley Church at 10am on Saturday 15th September. Refreshments will be served beforehand; all are invited and all are welcome.
